Online Course, Fall 2021

Overview & Goals

Why do countries go to war? Are the reasons unique to each situation or are there any generalizable determinants of war? This course is a systematic exploration of these questions.

Our approach is organized around four levels of analysis. In each unit, we'll dig into the major theories and debates that shape the study of war in international relations. We'll begin by looking at features of the international system and exploring when and why the system has been more or less war-prone. Then we'll drill down to the domestic level, exploring whether certain types of countries are more or less likely to go to war. Midway through the semester, we'll pivot and look at dyads, asking whether the qualities of pairs of states make them more or less likely to go to war. Finally, we'll look at individual leaders, exploring the roles they play in war. As we move through each level, we'll pair our readings with discussions of cases and current events asking ourselves whether and how well our theories help us explain and understand the world as we find it.

In this seminar, students will...

- ◆ Explore and analyze various theories of international war and conflict
- ◆ Apply theories to current and historical cases
- ◆ Develop a better understanding of the tradeoffs of using different levels of analysis in international relations
- ◆ Improve writing skills, particularly the ability to synthesize and apply theoretical material

Course Materials

1. Lewis (2018) The 2020 Commission Report on the North Korean Nuclear Attacks Against the United States: A Speculative Novel.
2. All other readings are available through Bb.

Requirements

Seminar Participation (10%)

Our primary interaction in this course will occur in our virtual classroom, the discussion board. Each week, you'll be required to post at least twice. See Bb for details.

Seminar Leadership (5%)

In one of the non-essay weeks (starting August 25), you and at least one other classmate will take the lead on the discussion board. Your job is to post an initial prompt or two within 24 hours of the start of the week and continue to advance the discussion throughout the week.

Engaging the Material (ETM) Assignments (35%)

In most weeks, you'll complete a short writing exercise (1-2 pages) forcing you to engage the material more deeply. The type of assignment will change from week to week. We'll use some of these as the basis for our discussions and they'll be useful as you pull together your thoughts for your unit and final essays.

Unit Essays (30%)

At the end of units 2 and 4, you will write a 5-6 page essay in response to a specific prompt. Please see Bb for details.

Analytical Paper on Final Case (20%)

In the final week of the course, we'll discuss the Lewis' book, The 2020 Commission Report, focusing on whether the theories we've discussed throughout the semester help us assess the likelihood of Lewis' hypothetical situation. As a final project, you'll pull your thoughts together in an essay of 7-10 pages. See Bb for details.

Course Policies

Deadlines

In order to avoid a penalty, all assigned work must be completed and submitted by due date/times indicated. Any assignment submitted within 24 hours of the original deadline will receive a 10% penalty. I will not accept assignments submitted more than 24 hours past the original deadline. If you anticipate any issues with this generally or for a specific assignment, please communicate with me in advance of the deadline.

It is always good practice to generate some sort of receipt when submitting assignments through Bb. Make sure the system is set up to send you an email or take a screenshot.

Determining Your Grade

Your current running total/grade will always be available on Blackboard. The final letter grade will be determined as follows per University policy. Please note that there are no D's for graduate studies! I am happy to discuss your grade at any point in the semester. If you're concerned or have questions about anything, please email me, and we'll arrange a time to discuss.

EARNED	GRADE	DENOTATION

Academic Integrity

SHSU Academic Policy Statement 810213 reads in part: "The University expects all students to engage in all academic pursuits in a manner that is above reproach. Students are expected to maintain complete honesty and integrity in the academic experiences both in and out of the classroom. The University may initiate disciplinary proceedings against a student accused of any form of academic dishonesty, including but not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, collusion, falsification of research data, or the abuse of resource materials on an examination or other academic work. Any student accused of dishonesty is subject to academic penalties and may be referred to the Dean of Student's office for additional disciplinary action." Please read the policy carefully, as it defines each of the forms of academic dishonesty mentioned.

I have a zero-tolerance approach to these issues: Plagiarized work and any form of academic dishonesty will result in an "F" on the assignment. It could also result in additional disciplinary action taken by the university. Students have a right to appeal to the department chair, then to the dean, and eventually to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs. The specific disciplinary procedures for academic dishonesty are outlined in Academic Policy Statement 810213.

If you have any questions, please ask! I am always happy to help point you in the right direction if you have questions about proper attribution and/or citation.

Religious Holy Days

SHSU Academic Policy Statement 861001 states: "Section 51.911 (b) of the Texas Education Code requires that an institution of higher education excuse a student from attending classes or other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day, including travel for that purpose. A student whose absence is excused under this subsection may not be penalized for that absence and shall be allowed to take an examination or complete an assignment from which the student is excused within a reasonable time." Section 2.02 states "A student who is excused under this section may not be penalized, but the instructor may appropriately respond if the student fails to satisfactorily complete the assignment or exam."

Disability Services

SHSU Academic Policy Statement 811006 reads: "It is the policy of Sam Houston State University that no otherwise qualified individual with a disability shall, by reason of his/her disability, be excluded from the participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any academic program or activity or in employment." The policy continues, "The SHSU Section 504/ADA Coordinator for student academic-related matters is the Director of the SHSU Office of Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD), located in the Lee Drain Building Annex, SHSU Box 2091, Huntsville, Texas 77341, with telephone 936-294-3512, TDD 936- 294-3786, and e-mail disability@shsu.edu. SHSU and SSD promote full and equal access on the part of otherwise qualified students with disabilities to the educational and extra-curricular programs, activities, and services of the University. Students seeking academic adjustments and/or auxiliary aids and services under Section 504 or the ADA should contact SSD. SSD makes the initial determinations regarding such requests."

Course Introduction (August 16-17)

What do we mean by the “scientific study of war”?

Readings

- Bueno de Mesquita (2014) “Evaluating arguments about international politics,” in Principles of Int’l Politics, pp. 35-63.
- Quackenbush (2015) “The Scientific Study of War” & “Concept in Focus: Reading Tables of Regression Results” in International Conflict: Logic & Evidence, pp. 3-13; 131.
- Nye & Welch (2017) “Explaining Conflict & Cooperation: Tools and Techniques of the Trade” in Understanding Global Conflict & Cooperation, pp. 39-80.

Optional but Highly Recommended

- Shore (2016) “How to Read, Part I: Dissecting a Text,” pp. 8-39.
- Shore (2016) “How to Read, Part II: Critiquing a Text,” pp. 40-55.

Notes

- ➡ The “optional” readings aren’t just throwaways—I still find them very useful and refer to them often!
- ➡ You might consider reading the Lewis book (see Unit 5) as soon as you can get your hands on it. I found it a fast read. If you read it early, it will give you a set of things to think about throughout the course. Also, at the end of the semester—when things are typically much busier—you’ll only have to “revisit” it rather than read it for the first time.
